In renewing his sub--for the 23rd time, by the way--W. H. Wegner writes on his letterhead, disclosing that he is an optometrist. I often am led to wonder what the members of the Krewe do to earn a living.

Chet has figured out that Sol got his nom by reversing the first syllable of Los Angeles. Clever, but incorrect. Sol originally was known as Sol Vemalle and in his reincarnation he dropped the latter part.

Since I stirred up Macropod he has sent me several fine flats that will appear in due course, Now, if I could only get a similar response from Artaxerxes, Castet, Jack Point, Nutmeg, Jim Bill and a dozen others!

In answer to the FITS--KITS alphagram in August, Ralph submitted LICE-MICE, and I credited it. Won't Sol be surprised to learn that his flat has two answers!

A solver says: "Through correspondence with Blank I am enjoying Enigma's puzzles more than at any time since I joined the N.P.L." Is there not something to be said for joint solving when it brings pleasure?

Anno Nimity suggests that we vote also for the worst puzzle shown each month. Some folks just have no fear of an animated buzz-saw!

Rayle Rhoder plans to go to Tampa, Fla., this winter, where her son has a law office. Now look out for some flats couched in legal jargon!

We heard him implore in the year '34 "Allow me to rest on my cot, with every flat I attempted to get, Got."

He's emerged from the haze of those frustrated days With a mandate to pay off old scores And if that is his plan, I consider he can Temporarily rest on his oars.

SOME CURES FOR FLAT FLATS

By SUE DOE

The clever, anonymous verse header in May, entitled Flat Hints, evokes a responsive chord in this corner. However, several points arise.

The injunction against "definition" flats (neatly expressed as: ONE is this, and TWO is that, and WHOLE is so-and-so) is well-warranted. I hate such flats. I much prefer those that tell a story. The latter invariably give the solver a break. Just using a word in a sentence sheds as much, and sometimes more, light on it as defining it. On the other hand, Arty prefers short flats, for reasons of space. I personally find it extremely difficult to tell a story in a flat in 12 lines or less, and still keep the verse acceptable. My interpretation of acceptable verse is generous, let me hasten to add. Like most of the Krewe, I am a poor hand at meter and rhyme, but it gets acceptable if I try hard enough.

Some words, particularly in long transposals, just don't seem to lend themselves to stories. Yet even here an imaginative mind can work wonders. Witness B.Natural's threeway stretch on MISANTHROPE, or Fiddle's NCHEGA-CHANGE pair, or MICONCAVE as versified by Sol. The last is a "definition" flat, yet clued well, done cleverly and highly polished — actually a fine puzzle by even the strictest standards.

The author of Flat Hints puts his finger squarely on the trouble with our flats, I think, when he points out the need for polishing. We're all too inclined to dash off something and mail it in. I'm probably the worst offender in the Krewe--I try to accompany my sols with at least one flat, and many times I don't have any on hand. So in 10 minutes I dream up the keywords, clue them, rhyme(?) them and mail them. When and if they see print, I am usually ashamed of them. Yet the ones made in leisure, rewritten and polished several times, are invariably pleasing to me when they appear in print.

Just what should be done to remedy this situation is hard to say. If we could fill Arty's bin with good cons it might help. If he wasn't chronically low on material, he might be in a position to return cons which have good possibilities, but suffer from hasty treatment. In many cases, just the opportunity to reconsider would probably be sufficient to suggest the modifications that would make the flat acceptable.

Another approach to this problem would be to raise our standards. This is readily done in two ways. Appoint someone (Molemi?) a committee of one to select excellent flats of yesteryear and print one of these in every issue. Along with this, a reorientation of the Flat Committee's report would accomplish a great deal. Years ago if memory serves, the commit-tee's report was devoted mainly to choosing the best flats of the year. This kind of accolade did much to spur on the constructor. I know the thrill I felt when once I made such a list years ago! The best puzzle of the month is selected now, but not very many bother to vote. Also, a flat can get the votes of only those that solve it, though it's quite conceivable that it stumped all but a handful of solvers; yet the Krewe at large may deem it the best when they see the answer, and appreciate the artistry and subtlety of the clues. I'm sure this situation is true of Sol's work, which I judge easily the best around.

For the rest, I can only urge the constructor to emulate the work of such consistently fine flattists as Evergreen, B. Natural, Dorse, Rayle Rhoder, Sol, et al. And those bygone master flattists, should we decide to exhume their finest work.

I think the problem of improving our work needs all the suggestions the Krewe can supply. Arty, who would benefit the most, will cheerfully allocate space for everything constructive to be said on the topic. Maybe some of our better flattists should tell us how they do it. Anyhow, let's all get into the act.

Nice going, Pacifico! Let's have a lot more of your anagrams.

A CHANGE OF ADMINISTRATION

The resignations of M.E. as Treasurer of the League, and of Arty Ess as Official Editor have been sent to President Ambrose, both to take effect at the end of 1953. By the new Constitution, the Trustees (officers of the League) are empowered to fill any vacancies that occur.

This step on the part of your editor arises from no pique or peevishness. He has managed the Enigma over thirty years, and has reached an age when tenure of life is uncertain. He believes that to resign now will allow a change of administration with no confusion or delay.

The Treasurer ought to live within convenient distance of the editor, preferably in the same town. Therefore, M.E. resigns, so that this arrangement can be effected.

This is the final Enigma to be issued by the present editor. The January, 1954, number will be prepared by the new incumbent. It is fitting, therefore, for M.E and Arty Ess here to acknowledge the countless courtesies extended to them, and to record grateful appreciation of the loyalty of the Krewe.

After submitting his header, Macropod sent a postal -suggesting that I kill it, fearing Sol's reaction. But it would be a crime to suppress such verses; and besides, Sol is not the type to take umbrage.

Y, Knott, sending greatly appreciated cons, wonders just why Hoodwink missed HOTEL in his THOLE transpo.

Beryl says he once devised a method of solving crypts, using punched cards. It worked, but was prohibitively expensive!

Copies of the League history, prepared by Oedipus for the 70th anniversary, can be had from him. Send 10¢ to cover cost of mailing. It is an excellent bit of work.

Appeals are in vain, for the Krewe doesn't heed 'em. We repeat the refrain: Crypts? You bet that we need 'em!

CHAT

Dorse talked puzzles to 158 women at Northampton (Mass.) Women's Club. We hope some of her hearers will take up our puzzles as a result.

A mystic writes: "And when, Arty, are you going to confess your identity with the delightful and charming Sue Doe?" The answer is "Never!" I am NOT Sue Doe, altho I paraded as Quondam, back in the early twenties. Perhaps Sue Doe will oblige.

On Oct. 11, there was a small convention at the home of Sol, in L.A., with Evergreen, Alouette, Quirk, Pa-cifico, Zordo, Modoc, Sol Jr., and Sol attending. There was a period of solving, and Ouirk explained her way of attacking crypts. So successful was the affair that the near future will see another.

Right after the July 4 convention, Aristotle was carted off to the hospital for two operations. He still feels wobbly.

Interested by the suggestion that the League advertise in Sat. Rev. of Lit., Pacifico generously sent $10 to help along the good work.

M.E. and I celebrated our Golden Wedding anniversary Oct. 14, and we were surprised and pleased to receive cards from so many of the Krewe.

JANUARY, 1954

GREENFIELD, MASS.

No. 598

DIASKEUAST'S DESIDERATA By B. NATURAL

'Tis 1954, Ye Ed has changed his spots. His trousers, coat and vest, Attest!

But still the sanctum door. In Greenfield stands ajar, As Centre Hall, for you. The Krewe.

So, come ye one and all, A flat, a form, a crypt; A header: worth the while. Compile.

The bins, inherited, Wouldst welcome fodder fresh From dormant pen and brain.

Too few are noms on file. Who Thedom represent. Please heed, fill in the blanks, and......THANKS! -----

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

Now and again some member of the Now and again some member of the frewe writes "I notice that the mem-bership is falling off; let's do something about it"; and there they leave it, without any suggestion on their parton how to counterchallenge this vital threat to the League's future security. That is, until:

Brookline, Mass. There is a distinct technological development which has furthered the inroads of the anti-intellectuals in helping people who might otherwise profitably employ their time in puzzling - TV! With the advent of TV. it is no longer the written word or the spoken word (as in radio), that is the cultural unit. We have erected an electronically graven image in our homes. Another symptom of changing times is the break-up of the fa-mily as a recreational unit by diverse influences, too numerous to list. It does seem as if all the economic and social forces which have been dominating this country are acting in concert against us. Does this make us downhearted? Positively not!

I see the future Enigma with an expanded circulation, and not one Editor, but one for each department. I see a curious juxtaposition of NPL classical puzzles and the newer and more popular ones, and the interesting phenomenon of neophytes starting out doing crossword puzzles and ending up doing and constructing char-ing up doing and constructing sa well. ades, rebuses, transposals as well. I seethe membership expand, and only death and taxes cause members to drop out, because in addition to Enigma, they will receive a separate mimeographed "Chat" every time they send in a con. "Chat" will contain everything that is now in Enigma except the puzzle material, which will leave room for more and more puzzles. There will be special instructions to puzzlers, informing them to submit puz-zles on papers of uniform size, written on one side only, and each puz-zler will give his every puzzle his own serial number.

Each puzzler will get an acknowledgment of his cons, and an acceptance or rejection of each number, or perhaps asking for an extension of time to make up the Editor's mind. Rejected puzzles will be made the subject of a study, and a sheet pre-pared numbering the reasons for rejection. The rejector will fill out the sheet, assigning the number of the reason for rejection, and perhaps, if possible giving helpful advice in rewriting.

The Enigma is the monthly magazine of the National Puzzlers' League. Inc. The subscription price is $3.00 a year or $1.50 for six months. Membership in the League is by election.

The Official Editor and publisher is William G. Bryan, 246 Conway St.. Greenfield, Mass., to whom all com-munications should be addressed.

Files of League puzzle literature have been deposited in the library of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, where they may be consulted by anyone interested.

Entered as Second Class matter. December, 1953, at the Post Office, at Greenfield, Mass., under the Act of August 24, 1912.
